Marine Editor Shows Tonnage Here Has Decreased Since War Began.

Value Grew Because of High Prices-Warns Politics Is Behind Ship Shift.

Further evidence that the Federal Government has been misinformed as regards "congestion" at this port was supplied yesterday by Alexander R. Smith, editor of the Marine News.

Complaints about "congostion" and croneous statements that New York's wharfage and terminal facilities are and have been so far behind the needs of the time that traffic should be diverted to other Atlantic ports are said to have swayed the Government to a determination to remove steamships engaged in the Southern and Gulf trade from New Tork to Philadelphia. While steamship Tork to Philadelphia. While steamship men generally discredit this report it is nevertheless true that the Government has not Been pleased with the attitude displayed by the Hylan administration toward port needs and toward practical Tonnage Has Stendily Fallen.

Mr. Smith, an authority on port matters, calls attention to the fact that the tonnage of vessels entering and leaving the port of New York has decreased steadily sipce 1915, with a slight ex-ception for the year 1916. Apropor of the talk about "congestion." Mr Smith inted out yesterday that interesting d hitherto unpublished Governmental statistical data quite controverts the

"Our foreign commerce," said Mr. Smith, "has so greatly increased in value during the war that the general impression seems to exist that it has also increased in bulk. The opposite would seem to be the case. It has increased in value unquestionably, but as a less tonnage has taken care of it it must have decreased in bulk. That is to say, our foreign commerce has nearly doubled in value during the past four years—really it doubled between 1915 and 1917—while the tonnage engaged in its carriage has decreased."

The following table relating to the tonnage of ships entering and leaving the port reveals the decrease in bulk of foreign commerce, a fact which in itself would seem to disprove the "congestion" theory:

The second table refers to the great growth, in order, from 1911 to 1918 in-clusive, in value of foreign commerce, an

VALUE OF

These figures reveal conditions exist-Ing in the four years preceding the war and in the four years of the war, becouse the fiscal year ended June 30, 1914, obviously before there was any suggestion of war. It will be seen that the largest tonnage ever entered at or cleared from this port in any single year was in the year ended June 30. entering and leaving this port in the pass eight years was that for the present year—the year that ended on June 30, 1918, a year, too, in which the value of our imports and exports was nearly double that of 1914. The point about all of this," said

Smith, "is that the city of New k, or for that matter the port of v York, did not have any less wharfuse facilities during the period of the wor than it had immediately preceding the war. Our wharfage facilities were sufficient, apparently, to accommodate the larger tonnage in the four years pre-ceding the war; therefore they must have sufficed for the lesser tonnage during the period of the war; unless, indecd, some disturbing influence reduced its efficiency.

"The reason we shall have to look for,

I fear, in the animus that animated Claude Kitchin, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, to put the burden of the war revenue taxes upon the North. It looks as if political conthe North. It looks as it political con-miderations and not considerations of company, commerce or shipping, were animating the Federal Government in its unjustifiable diversion of any part of the foreign commerce from the port of New York

New York. "But manifestly the goose that lays. the golden eggs cannot be strangled if it is to continue to lay golden eggs. If New York is to be deliberately robbed of its commerce it will be robbed of everything. Coincidently if we lose our commerce we lose everything. And to the extent that we are robbed of any part of it our population, wealth, industries are all se-riously injured."

Mr. Smith denounced the reported in-tention of the Federal Government to remove the Southern and Gulf steamship got first attention. The conference of city officials and Federal railroad and steamship officials will be held on December 4, and exactly nothing is expected from it. The reason is that the ideas of the members of the city administration are not only far apart from the ideas of the Pederal rall-road officials, but that the members of the city administration have no definite policy and have displayed no aptitude for cooperation in attaining a policy.

by Trick, He Says.

Louis Roumagnac, a distinguished looking man of 60 years, who is said to be a marquis of France, was held in $25,000 bail yesterday by United States Commissioner Samuel H. Hitchcock charged with conspiring to use the mails to defraud. The Tuxpam Star Oil Corporation, of which he was president, is alleged to have swindled investors of $1,000,000 in the booming market for low priced afocks that has been a phase of the country's prosperity in war times.

Roumagnac was arrested in the offices of his company, which occupied many expensively furnished cooms on the seventh floor of the Singer Building.
